

President Asks Report On Planes

Early Says Estimate Is Sought to Give Idea of Navy, Treasury, War Figures

Calls It Proof
Biggers Report to Follow His Assertion About Orders

Washington, Aug. 27 (AP)—Conceding variations in government warplane figures, the White House called today for a defense commission report which it said would present a "reconciliation estimate" on planes already ordered.

This estimate, Stephen Early told reporters, would explain various estimates made by the war, navy and treasury departments, the defense commission, and by Senator Byrd (D.-Va.).

The White House press secretary said that John H. Biggers, acting head of industrial production of the commission, who would supply the report later today, had asserted it would "largely substantiate" the commission report yesterday which said that 6,724 planes of all types were under contract as of August 17.

Receives Letters
Senator Byrd said yesterday, however, that he had received letters from War Secretary Stimson and Navy Secretary Knox which declared that only 343 combat planes had been ordered in the last 100 days. He contended that defense preparations "are lagging to such an extent that our national security is menaced."

Early said the Biggers' report would clear up the situation, adding: "The fact is the defense commission and others feel that things are moving along in good shape and that planes are in production."

Early said a system had been worked out to "bridge over uncertainties due to pending legislation" whereby manufacturers get "letters of intention" permitting them to obtain materials for contracts pending receipt of a final contract.

It was "unfair," President Roosevelt's secretary added, to emphasize the number of combat planes under order because it first was necessary to get training planes to teach pilots how to operate the combat machines.

Training plane procurement, he said, was "moving along at a very satisfactory rate."

The commission's report was submitted to President Roosevelt yesterday.

Robert W. Horton, information director, said that by the end of the week the army would have placed contracts covering 75 per cent of all aircraft funds available. He noted that completion of a 25,000 plane program for the army and navy could not be undertaken until Congress had enacted a $5,000,000,000 appropriation bill pending in the Senate.

Byrd advocated a closer check by Congress on the defense program.

Meanwhile, Senator Russell (D., Va.) renewed his request for legislation empowering the government to take over manufacturing plants whose owners refused to agree to government contracts.

Russell said that the Senate appropriations committee had been informed that contracts for 144 five-inch guns for destroyers had been held up because a sub-contractor manufacturer of roller bearings was "not satisfied" with 8 per cent profit.

Huge Vote Expected
San Francisco, Aug. 27 (AP)—Nearly two million Californians were expected to vote today in a state primary election climaxing a campaign marked by Senator Hiram W. Johnson's bid for reelection, and Governor Culbert L. Olson's effort to end an anti-administration "economy bloc" control of state legislature.

California's 13,540 polling places will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. except in San Francisco, where voting hours are from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m.

F. D. R. Will Tinker With Thanksgiving Again This Year

Pomona, Calif., Aug. 27 (AP)—The chamber of commerce wanted to know whether Thanksgiving would be a week earlier again this year, so Secretary Edward B. Kennedy wrote to President Roosevelt.

He explained that Pomona merchants were planning ahead for their annual "Christmas preview" of merchandise.

The President's secretary, Stephen Early, replied, "The President proposed to designate Thursday, November 21, as Thanksgiving Day this year."

So the Pomona preview will be held on "old-style Thanksgiving Day," November 28.

Willkie to Travel 7,000 Miles in His Western Campaign
G.O.P. Leader Issues New Defense Denunciation and Demands Talk and Bunk End

New York, Aug. 27 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie said today he did not want the support of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin if he understood correctly that the radio priest is opposed "to certain people in this country because of their race or religion."

The Republican presidential nominee was asked at a press conference whether he had any comment on an editorial in the publication, Social Justice, calling his acceptance speech a much-needed call to American nationalism.

Raps Conversations
New York, Aug. 27 (AP)—After expanding his criticism of the Roosevelt defense program with a demand for an end to "bunk and conversation," Wendell L. Willkie gave his approval today to an augmented western campaign tour which will carry him 7,000 miles.

The itinerary as announced by Republican presidential headquarters calls for a half dozen major speeches in the last 17 days of the campaign, interspersed with 60 to 70 per platform appearances and brief talks in 18 states.

Willkie issued his latest denunciation of preparedness plans at a press conference yesterday by advocating that President Roosevelt "delegate substantial authority" to the national defense advisory commission and designate one member as chairman.

"Anyone with the most elementary understanding of the functioning of organizations knows that no organization can function without a head," said Willkie.

Not Even Peanut Stand
"You couldn't run a peanut stand if you had five employees with no directing head who could devote himself to the business."

"It is time for bunk and conversation to end and time to get the machinery going."

The defense advisory commission is composed of seven members who report to the President. Willkie contended that no President "can possibly give time or consideration to all the problems that such a board has to solve."

Without a directing head, he said, "jealousies, discord, inefficiency and failure" are bound to arise.

Willkie recommended that a war resources board, which was headed by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., be made public. Saying he assumed the report had been withheld on the President's instructions, he expressed the belief that it contained "a method for obtaining a functioning defense organization."

The nominee's schedule called for his return by plane late today to Rushville, Ind., where he will set up temporary headquarters. His appointment list was so full, however, that a short postponement was considered possible.

He expects to remain in and around Rushville until September 14, when his western tour will begin. The broad itinerary follows:

September 14—Leaving Chicago, there will be brief stops in such Illinois cities as Joliet, Ottawa, Peoria, Galesburg, Rock Island, and Moline, and Davenport, Iowa, plus other rear platform appearances in Iowa cities not yet selected.

RUMANIAN-RED BORDER CLASH GIVES HITLER NEW WORRIES; BERLIN RAIDED

Alien Registration Begins in Nation, Lasts Until Dec. 26

Local Postoffice Will Be Spot in This City; Rules About Fingerprinting Are Given Out

Registration of all aliens residing in the United States begins today. All resident aliens over 14 years of age will be required to be fingerprinted as well as register. This registration will take place at all first and second class post offices in the United States and in some localities at other designated places.

In Kingston, the county seat of Ulster county, registration will be at the central post office on Broadway, where room No. 3 with three men in charge, will be used. The entrance is from Broadway and the hours set by Postmaster William R. Kraft is from 3 to 8 p. m. each week day with the exception of Saturdays, when the hours will be from 1 to 5 o'clock that afternoon. All aliens must be registered by December 25. William Schwab, William Gallagher and Joseph Murphy are in charge.

Confusion on Fact
There has been some confusion as to whether an American born woman who is married to an alien and thereby lost her citizenship is required to register. Under the law those women apparently must register if they married an alien between the dates of March 2, 1907 and September 22, 1922.

The law which went into effect on March 2, 1907, clearly excludes them from citizenship and classifies them as aliens. Any such woman who between March 2, 1907 and September 22, 1922 who re-gained her citizenship however need not register.

In addition to the Kingston post office, which is the county seat post-office, other second class post-offices in the county where registration may be made are Saugerties, Highland, New Paltz and Ellenville.

At the local post-office it was stated that many forms had been given out and it was expected that there would be a first day rush of aliens at the office this afternoon to register.

The main facts about alien registration are:
Registration period—August 27 to December 26 inclusive.
Registrants—All non-citizens, including Filipinos.

Registration places—First and second post offices, post offices in county seats, and such other places as may be designated.

Registration questions—Fifteen to be answered by aliens over 14; nine to be answered by those younger.

Fingerprinting—All registrants over 14.

Penalties—Fine up to $1,000 and six months in jail for failure to register or for giving false information.

Four Are Dismissed
Chicago, Aug. 27 (AP)—The government dismissed William R. Skidmore and three other defendants today at the opening of trial of a case in which they and others were charged with conspiring in the alleged evasion of $1,887,664 in income taxes by William R. Johnson.

Conscription Backers Predict Senate Will Pass Measure Tonight

Senator Johnson Flays Bill as Billion Waste Annually; Calls It Prussian Ideology

Washington, Aug. 27 (AP)—Senator Johnson (D., Colo.) opposed peace-time military conscription today as a "waste" of $1,000,000,000 annually while advocates confidently predicted final Senate passage tonight.

Senator Burke (D., Neb.) co-author of the selective training bill, told reporters, "we'll pass this before we quit tonight," and Chairman Sheppard (D., Tex.) of the Senate military committee supported the forecast.

Johnson, one of the few members of the military committee opposed to the Burke-Wadsworth Bill, told the Senate:

"We hate Mr. Hitler, but we are about to strike our precious liberty a death blow by adopting his Prussian ideology of conscription. I can see the smirk on his cold expressionless face as the United States stabs democracy in the back because of him."

Democracy 'Defined'
Johnson, elaborating on dangers he said the military service bill held for democracy, told his colleagues that a United States army manual used, he said, from 1928 to 1932, described "democracy" as "mobocracy," or mob rule.

He said the manual, No. 2000-25, defined democracy "in these subversive terms":

"Democracy, a government of the masses. Authority derived through mass meeting or any other form of direct expression, results in mobocracy. Attitude toward property rights is Communistic-negating property rights. Attitude toward law is that the will of the majority shall regulate, whether it be based upon deliberation or governed by passion, prejudice, and impulse, without restraint or regard to consequence, results in"

Washington, Aug. 27 (AP)—Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) and Sir George Paish, British economist, disagreed today as to just what Sir George said about his connection with the entry of the United States into the World War.

Wheeler's account, which brought demands in the Senate yesterday for Sir George's expulsion from the country, was to this effect:

Sir George visited him at his office a few days ago. During the conversation, the economist asserted:

"I am responsible for getting this country into the last war and I intend to get it into this one."

Sir George, on the other hand, said this was what happened:

He called on Senator Wheeler. In the course of their talk he mentioned that, as a British financial advisor during the World War, he had "placed information at the disposal of my government." This information was subsequently

Italy Also Bombed in Night Raid

Wilhelmstrasse Feels War as Britons Drop Explosives; Fiat Plant Damaged

Nazis Strike Back
German Warplanes Are Sighted Over Anglia Today

(By The Associated Press)
A bloody border clash between Rumanian troops and Russia's red army soldiers—possibly signalling a sharp new setback to Hitler's expressed desire for peace in the Balkans—was reported today in diplomatic dispatches from Bucharest.

Hundreds were reported killed on both sides.

The fighting originally broke out Sunday, the dispatches said, in the vicinity of Dorohoi, near the new Russian-Rumanian frontier.

After a Sunday night lull, the battle was renewed.

Hitler has exerted powerful pressure on Rumania and other Balkan countries, to maintain the status quo in southeast Europe while he concentrates on the battle for Britain.

British RAF bombers attacked both Germany and Italy in far-ranging sorties before dawn today, and BBC, the official British radio, asserted that government buildings along the Wilhelmstrasse in Berlin—where Adolf Hitler's chancellery is situated—have been among the targets bombed.

Successful Attack
In London, the air ministry reported that the Royal Air Force delivered a successful attack upon a number of important military objectives in the axis territories. Six tons of RAF bombs were dumped in 40 minutes on Italian industrial targets, the air ministry said.

The Italian high command acknowledged that British "night hawk" raiders scored hits on the great Fiat plane and tank factory at Turin and attacked other points in the face of "violent air and anti-aircraft reaction."

British bomber was reported shot down in an attempted attack on Milan, in northern Italy.

Nazi warplanes flocked back over Britain this morning, renewing almost night-long assaults which kept London's millions awake during a six-hour "chain system" raid ending at 3:40 a. m.

Few casualties and little damage was reported in the German night raids, which saw Nazi bombers, some flying at a height of 20,000 feet, attacking singly or in small groups.

Berlin's 4,000,000 residents experienced their second air-raid alarm in two days, lasting 40 minutes, and Nazi authorities admitted that one high-flying British plane sped over the capital. They said seven others were turned back by anti-aircraft fire at Brandenburg, 40 miles west of Berlin.

The lone RAF raider sighted over the German capital dropped no bombs, Nazis said, but the raid drew an angry warning from DNB, official German news agency, that any "criminal attack" by British planes on non-military objectives would be repaid by bombs marked "made in Germany."

German Claims
Hitler's high command, reporting on yesterday's greatly intensified aerial warfare, said British troop concentrations in south England, airports and the big naval base at Portsmouth were bombed.

The German communiqué also asserted that the Nazi Luftwaffe carried out night assaults on the Plymouth naval base, Cornwall airport, Coventry, airplanes factories at Birmingham, in the English midlands, and port facilities at Hull and Newcastle.

Great bomb-set fires were visible for many miles around Birmingham, the Germans said.

Three of the Nazi night raiders were reported downed.

Revised claims by the belligerents on yesterday's operations in the air war were: British: 46 German planes shot down against 15 British lost; German: 61 British planes shot down and nine destroyed on the ground against 20 German planes lost.

In the rival capital, Berlin, some 600 miles away as a bomber flies, British Royal Air Force activity brought a 40-minute air alarm but did not provoke the in-

Sterley Arranges For Registration Of N.Y.N.G. Units

All Men Who Expect Call to Service Are Requested to File Names With Election Board

John B. Sterley, clerk of the Board of Elections of Ulster county, today contacted Captain F. L. Coombs of the 156th Field Artillery and requested that all members of the local National Guard units who may possibly be called out for active service prior to election, call at the Board of Elections office on John street and register under the absentee voter provision in order that they may not lose their vote this fall.

With a probability that National Guard units may be called into active service about September 15 and the members of the guard move out of Ulster county, it will be necessary for the members to vote an absentee ballot this fall. In order to vote an absentee ballot it is required that they register and express the desire to vote an absentee ballot.

The matter will be taken up with the local National Guardsmen by their commanding officers, but Clerk Sterley requests that all guardsmen who may be eligible for an absentee ballot come in person to the Board of Election office immediately and place themselves in a position to vote even though they may be at a distant point on election day.

The manner of voting in case the guardsmen are not called out and remain in town will be explained by the board at the time of registering.

Tax, Amortization Bill Is Approved, Reported to House

50 per cent, with the object of preventing "war millionaires." It would permit defense industries to deduct from taxable income and profits over a five year period the full cost of expansion necessary to handle defense orders.

It would suspend the present seven and eight per cent limitation imposed on the profits a manufacturer can make on government orders for aircraft and warships.

Estimate About $300,000,000

Unofficial estimates placed the 1940 yield from the excess profits tax at about $300,000,000, as compared with the $190,000,000 that would have been realized under the original tax schedules proposed before the bill was revised.

President Roosevelt has been urging excess profits legislation as necessary and quick congressional approval was asked by Defense Commissioner William S. Knudsen. Knudsen declared that letting of defense contracts had been retarded because manufacturers first wanted tax credits for their plant expansions and they also desired to know how much excess profits tax they would have to pay.

Debate on the measure is scheduled to start Thursday, with passage expected by Friday night.

The final draft incorporated many concessions to both Democratic and Republican committee members who had complained that the original tax schedule recommended by a sub-committee would fall hardest on those least able to pay.

Bill Is Revamped
The full committee, therefore, revamped the bill to increase the tax on high earning corporations and to lower it for low earning companies.

Two methods of excise tax computation were provided. Under the "average earnings" method, a corporation's profits would be "excess" and taxable if they exceeded the average of its earnings for the four years, 1936 to 1939, inclusive.

Under the "invested capital" method, a firm would be allowed from a minimum credit of seven per cent to a maximum of 10 per cent on its invested capital during the 1936-1939 base years, depending on the percentage of earnings of the company on its invested capital during those years. Because high earning corporations were expected to elect the "average earnings" method of computing their tax, the range of rates for that method were fixed at from 25 to 50 per cent.

A 20 to 45 per cent range was provided for corporations using the "invested capital" method, which was designed for the less prosperous concerns.

On its return trip, however, the giant four-motored passenger plane made the hop in six hours flat.

Chicago, Aug. 27 (P)—The American housewife's increased buying of beef and pork has helped to lift the farm price of cattle to the highest level in three years and of hogs to the highest in almost a year.

Housewives are paying more for most meat cuts than they did a year ago. Retail prices here last week on the whole were the highest of the year. Wholesale pork loins have advanced to 23 cents a pound, highest since last September. Top loins of beef were quoted around 35 cents a pound wholesale, 25 per cent higher than a year ago.

Men Who Enlist Now Get Chance To Select Jobs

Army authorities have been deluged recently with inquiries from young men between the ages of 21 and 31 years. Most of these young men want to know if it would benefit them to enlist now rather than to wait for the passage of the Selective Service Law. This highly important question was answered today, affirmatively, by Colonel L. B. Magruder, 2nd Corps Area recruiting officer.

Under Selective Service, Colonel Magruder points out, no one will be able to choose his place in the country's defense forces. The young men called to the colors may be sent to the Army, Navy or Marine Corps largely as a matter of chance. Enlistment now, on the other hand, permits the young men to pick out, say the army, marine corps or the navy, but also the branch or arm of the service he chooses.

For instance, in applying for enlistment with the army, the young man can select duty with the infantry, field artillery, tank corps, air service, engineers, medical or any other of the branches of the service.

Then further, specially qualified men today have the opportunity of seeking training as army flying cadets and later commissions as second lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve. Incidentally, this army flying training ranks with the best in the world.

The recruit today also may select some particular post or army organization with which he desires to serve, and if he enlists for a three-year period he may select service in either Panama, Puerto Rico, the Philippines or the Hawaiian Islands.

"The army holds out today greater opportunities than ever before," Colonel Magruder emphasizes. "Its officer and enlisted personnel must be expanded."

Caldwell was represented by Attorney John Bonomi of Ellenville.

CANADA ON THE JOB
Any notion in this country that Canada is snuggling up to Uncle Sam as a scared little sister would be mistaken. Americans who have been in Canada this summer and talked with Canadians generally have found them quietly confident of victory and determined to see the war through. American assurance of support does not create their confidence, but only strengthens it.

Moreover, there are some respects in which the Dominion is setting a good example to the United States. While our own country has been floundering in its military preparations, the northern picture today is very different. Canadian war preparations, mainly aerial, are on an incredibly vast scale. In southeastern Ontario they are training flyers by tens of thousands. As for progress in war industries, Richard Harding, business writer for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, says Canada is setting us an example.

"All indications are," he reports, "that Canada has rolled up her sleeves, opened her collar and gone to work with the idea that production is what England needs, and that if the war materials she can make are not ready in time for Europe, they may still serve a valuable purpose at home. She has finally cut the red tape that was hampering her earlier war efforts, as it is doing those of the United States."

"We could do worse than look in her direction for she is bringing capital and labor into line in a remarkable way, and into cooperation to a degree that a few weeks ago seemed impossible. Her own feeling is that she has worked out a program that gives the democratic process a chance to produce as only a free democracy can produce."

"Labor works with manufacturers by assuring them that there will be no interference with contracts. One result is that about $120,000,000 is going immediately into extension of plants, expected to increase production about $500,000,000 a year. There is no delay because of protracted disputes over amortization or any other such nonsense."

FREEDOM'S FIRST ENEMIES
There are clear lessons to be learned from events abroad by Americans awake to them. And many Americans are trying to profit by them. One of these is Daniel J. Tobin, international president of the Teamsters Union. Speaking at the dedication of a new union hall, Mr. Tobin said:

"Let us, who still have the freedom granted us by democracy—who still have the freedom to vote—put an end to dishonesty. Let us clean up the labor movement, but let us also clean up the wrongdoers in every other branch of our public life. They are the real enemies of our freedom."

The people of the remaining democracies could feel more certain of the preservation of their freedom if it required only the ending of Hitlerism and the defeat of Hitler. But they know that the democracies which have already collapsed weakened their national strength by internal dissension, selfishness, dishonesty, indifference to the common good. Wrongdoers in labor in the United States, although few in number, have harmed their fellow workers and their country to a dangerous degree. Wrongdoers in other branches of public life are indeed the enemies of freedom. And so are citizens who wash their hands of the responsibilities of democracy while demanding all its rights and privileges.

MASTERING A NATION
Here's an interesting bit of journalistic history. Quote:

"We have seen a young man of no name or family, an adventurer, a foreigner, who has fed upon the bread of public charity—we have seen him step forward, put his bit in the mouth of a furious nation, scourge it with his whip and goad it with his spurs. We have seen them, all as one man, become the tools of his ambition, a mighty engine in his hands, that has been wielded by him hither and thither at his pleasure. Like the He Goat in the Prophet Daniel, that 'touched not the ground' as he went, we have seen this modern Alexander moving in his career of victory with astonishing rapidity, shaking the pillars of every government within his reach, and still adding nation after nation to his train of conquests. All this we have seen already, and what will be the next act in the drama, or what its catastrophe, Omnipotence alone can foretell."

No, friends, you're mistaken. It is not Adolf Hitler who is the subject of this eloquence. It is a tough hombre named Napoleon, who was operating in the same area 131 years ago, as described by the Connecticut Courant of that time. And those old-time journalists could write, couldn't they?

P.S.—Even that rampaging He Goat, you will recall, finally got "his come-uppance," as the Connecticut Yankees say.

NIPPONESE VIRTUE
Japan is very righteous now in her intentions toward the Dutch Indies. A New York correspondent of a Tokyo newspaper paints an idyllic picture of relations between the two countries. Batavia is the only place in the world, he says, "where the West meets the East without friction."

He adds that a Japanese invasion of the East Indies is not only unthinkable, but would be to the distinct disadvantage of Japan, which now enjoys there all the trade and migration rights that she could possibly want.

Maybe so. But Japan has done many things in the Far East lately which were "unthinkable."

Other nations may note that we're arming and conducting a political campaign at the same time, and the two procedures have nothing to do with each other.

Overplaying a hand: A mosquito's stinger weighs six millionths of an ounce, and the slap you give the mosquito is 1,000,000 times that heavy.

The incredible is always happening in New Jersey. The Klan and the Bund have been holding a joint "Americanism" rally there.

If the United States is "not a person," as a U. S. circuit court holds, what becomes of Uncle Sam?

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

ACUTE APPENDICITIS

There are still a large number who disregard any pain in the right lower part of the abdomen. In most cases the pain is due to gas or to a spasm which passes away within a few minutes to an hour, it is not surprising that when the pain remains longer than an hour, in most cases it is still considered as due to gas or spasm. Even when the pain is directly over the appendix, McBurney's point as it is called, it may not be due to appendicitis.

As most pains in this region are due to gas or to something eaten, the first thought is to "drive" the gas or irritating substance through the intestine and out of the body by means of purgatives. In its efforts to drive wastes out of the intestine, a purgative greatly increases the movement of the walls of the intestine. If the appendix is inflamed, these movements may cause further inflammation and perhaps rupture of the appendix. Some idea of how dangerous purgatives or laxatives can be in appendicitis was shown in the survey made by the Medical Society of Philadelphia. The survey showed that in cases where a laxative had been given, 7 per cent of the patients died, but where no laxative had been given only 2 per cent died. That is, when a laxative was given one patient out of 14 died, but when there had been no laxative, 1 out of 46 died. When only one dose of laxative or purgative had been given 1 in 17 died, but when more than one dose had been given one in five died.

What then should be done when a severe pain occurs in the lower right side of abdomen?

Dr. Harold B. Wood in Hygieia some weeks ago advised that the patient should lie down, preferably on his back. Most physicians advise against the use of an enema but Dr. Wood states that where there is good reason to believe that the intestine must be emptied a small enema—a pint of warm water containing a teaspoonful of table salt—may be given slowly. If pain continues for over an hour a physician should be called. In the Philadelphia survey which I have mentioned before it was shown that when cases with acute appendicitis were operated upon within 24 hours, only about 2 per cent died; of those admitted next day, 4 per cent died, and those on and after the third day, 8 to 10 per cent died.

No laxatives and early operation saves many lives.

MOSCOW TO MEXICO:—THE STALIN SCOURGE

HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

These articles are written from the collection of George W. Murdock, veteran marine engineer.

No. 157—"General Slocum"
Mention of the steamboat "General Slocum" brings to many persons the memory of a great disaster—a catastrophe that has been labeled "the greatest disaster in the steamboat history of the world"; for it was aboard the "General Slocum" that 1,021 persons, bent on a merry-making excursion, met death.

Devine Burtis, Jr., built the wooden hull of the "General Slocum" at Brooklyn in 1891. Her 235 foot keel was laid on December 23, 1890, and she was launched on April 18, 1891. Her overall length was 255 feet, breadth of hull 37 feet six inches (over her guards she was 70 feet), depth of hold 12 feet six inches. The gross tonnage of the "General Slocum" was listed at 1,284, with net tonnage at 1,013. W. A. Fletcher Company of Hoboken, N. J., built the vertical beam engine which had a cylinder diameter of 53 inches with a 12 foot stroke. She carried two boilers—23 and a half feet long and nine and a half feet in diameter.

The "General Slocum" was built expressly for the excursion trade, operating between New York and Rockaway Beach in line with the steamboat "Grand Republic," and she was the first of the large excursion steamboats to have the innovation of hardwood finish on her outside joiner work.

The Knickerbocker Steamboat Company were the owners of the "General Slocum"—using her as a replacement for the steamboat "Columbia," a sister ship to the "Grand Republic," which had been sold to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company during the winter of 1888.

The "General Slocum" and the "Grand Republic" ran on the Rockaway route for several years, and were then placed in the excursion business on the Hudson river and Long Island Sound—being the largest excursion steamboats out of New York.

Then came the tragic event which placed the greatest stain on the pages of steamboat history and caused the "General Slocum" to be remembered with feelings of horror.

On June 15, 1904, the "General Slocum" was chartered by the Sunday School and members of the congregation of St. Mark's German Lutheran Church of New York city for an excursion. A few minutes before 10 o'clock in the morning the "General Slocum" left the recreation pier at the foot of East Third street and started up the East River at a 15 knot clip—it being the plan of her captain to reach Locust Grove, Long Island, the destination of the excursionists, shortly after the noon hour.

When the "General Slocum" reached a point opposite 97th street several of the crew, who were on the lower deck, saw puffs of smoke coming through the seams in the flooring. For some reason that will never be known, the discovery was not immediately communicated to Captain Van Schaick. Some of the deck hands went below and ran into the second cabin—believing they could easily extinguish the fire. They found the place a furnace, and rushed above to notify Mate Edward Flanagan of the blaze. The mate directed the fire apparatus placed in use and in turn notified the captain. Captain Van Schaick signalled Pilot Conkling to proceed at full speed ahead and point the bow of the vessel towards North Brothers Island—which was a good mile ahead.

The wind was blowing from the north and the swift progress of the "General Slocum" caused a strong air-current which fanned the flames and drove tongues of fire backwards into the faces of the excursionists, who became panic-stricken. Mothers scurried frantically about in an endeavor to collect their families and guide them to a supposed place of safety while the crew turned their efforts to fighting the raging fire which was fast gaining terrifying proportions. People crowded back onto the after decks of the vessel and children were trampled. A policeman named Kelb endeavored to restore order but his efforts were in vain.

It was just 10:20 a. m. when the "General Slocum" was beached at North Brothers Island. When she struck bottom her bow was in four feet of water but her stern, where all the people were crowded, was in approximately 30 feet of water. The instant the vessel grounded many of the terrified passengers, believing they were in shallow water, jumped overboard. Scores of them never came to the surface. To add to the catastrophe the beaching of the vessel caused the stanchions supporting the hurricane deck to collapse under the weight of the milling passengers. Hundreds of unfortunate were hurled downward into the midst of the roaring furnace and were instantly burned to death. Later the vessel sunk and many of the bodies were never recovered. In all there were 1,021 people who lost their lives in this great disaster.

The hull of the "General Slocum" was later raised and sold to J. H. Gregory of Perth Amboy, N. J., to be broken up, but was later converted into a coal barge.

The coal barge was sold to a Philadelphia company on June 15, 1905, for use on the Delaware river—but neither Mr. Gregory nor the purchasers realized at the time that the sale had been made on the anniversary of the fire.

The converted hull of the "General Slocum," bearing the name of "Maryland," was lost off the New Jersey coast in the vicinity of Sandy Hook on December 3, 1911. She was never recovered. The sister ship of the "General Slocum," the "Grand Republic," was likewise destroyed by fire—on April 26, 1924, at the foot of West 156 street.

You Might Have to Quit Eating Out of Cans, But You Needn't Worry About Tin for Defense

By JACK STINNETT
Washington—There's been a lot of talk about tin since the national defense program got under way, but if you'll believe Department of Commerce officials, much of the talk is hokey.

There's no doubt that if the United States' tin supply were cut off, there would be a fine mess. But for that to happen, England would have to lose the war, and Japan would have to seize British Malaya and the Dutch East Indies, and blockade our trade with those settlements or refuse to sell us any tin. Furthermore, it would have to be proved that Bolivia couldn't step up its tin supply to 50,000 tons. It was almost that high in 1929 but had dropped to a little more than half that by last year. There is the possibility we could cut our consumption to get along on what we could get from Bolivia plus the small amount of tin that could be reclaimed.

Has Caused Wars
Tin is a mighty interesting product. Wars were fought for it long before the Christian era. Julius Caesar's invasion of the British Isles may have been to get to the tin mines in Cornwall.

This Is Picture: Billions for Defense, but Boondoggling Waste Still Continues—Oklahoman Speaks

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 27.—Congress is about to levy the highest taxes the American people have ever faced and is about to ask the country to pay for the biggest defense bill it has ever had in peace times, and yet there is seemingly no effort to eliminate wasteful expenditure and boondoggling through the WPA and other agencies.

If what is happening in Oklahoma is an example of what other states are encountering, then Congress might well begin to re-examine government expenses to see what the non-war items are that are costing even more than they did in the acute days of depression.

Today comes a letter, for example, from a prominent man in Oklahoma who tells of what appears to be a new kind of "political racket" growing out of the alleged needs of the national defense situation. He writes:

"Through WPA Administrator Harrington, Oklahoma was offered $800,000, available July 1st, for the purpose of making a white-collar project to survey the defense resources of the state. The state Chamber of Commerce and the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce and Oklahoma University were approached as being the most likely co-sponsors. The matter was referred to a committee of the Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce. However, before this committee was named, the officers of the state Chamber of Commerce raised a question as to whether such a large sum was necessary, and State Administrator Stephens of WPA said they would consent to cut it down to $274,000, with a proviso that the amount could be increased later."

"The project calls for four months' work which was to have begun July 1st and end November 1st, which, by a strange coincidence, happens to be just before the election. Even after the cut was made, the plan called for about 1,500 workers and an expenditure of large sums of money and thousands of dollars for flies, cabinets, electric fans, supplies, etc. When the committee got into action, one of its members became suspicious and investigated through a number of sources and found a large sum was necessary, and State Administrator Stephens of WPA said they would consent to cut it down to $274,000, with a proviso that the amount could be increased later."

"When this information was presented to the committee, they decided to drop the whole matter and our last information is that the project is dead. I assume, however, that similar offers have been made by the WPA authorities to other states and assume some of them have been accepted."

"This is a bare-faced political racket involving the squandering of taxpayers' hard-earned money for a 100 per cent useless project, and this at a time when people are asked to sacrifice for defense."

While the WPA is presumably banned under the Hatch Act from engaging in political activity, there is no law against the strategic distribution of funds among the citizens to build up political strength. The mere allocation of funds is regarded by candidates for public office as warranting an expression of gratitude by voters, and in many instances individuals will electorally among their friends in ways that cannot possibly be traced under the Hatch law—something the practical politicians will not be slow to point out, especially since the Department of Justice of the Roosevelt administration did not prosecute anybody in the Democratic party for violations of the federal corrupt practices act in 1936 in connection with the illegal sale of the campaign books to corporations who have since 1909 been forbidden to contribute to political campaigns.

The importance of the WPA cannot be underestimated in a political campaign. In 1936, the statistics show that when the WPA expenditures were divided into high, medium, and low—these being terms designated to indicate above and below the average for a given state—the counties with the highest amounts received from WPA showed the highest percentages for the Roosevelt ticket while the counties with the lowest expenditure showed the lowest percentages. This was a uniform trend. The Landon vote fluctuated so that where the WPA allocations were least, amount the Republicans made a better showing, and where the WPA was largest, the Republicans made their poorest showing.

This is not to say that the voters were unduly influenced by WPA or AAA, but that they were evidently reminded that the funds were given them by the Democratic party and that gratitude should be naturally expressed in the form of votes. In some instances in 1936, the federal government itself published manuals for federal office holders in order to show them exactly how much federal money was spent in each state and called meetings of federal office holders to make sure that they got copies of such data. It is not surprising, therefore, that as a political campaign gets under way, there should be sharp scrutiny of all federal expenditures which may possibly be related to a political purpose.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

With the women of today wearing their skirts just below the knees, older readers will chuckle as they recall the days of the hobble skirt so popular among the women of 1910-11. Those were also the days of the slit skirts.

Many who read this column will easily recall the attempts made by the women in the days at the turn of the century to board the running board of the trolley car without too much a display of lower extremities. It was a difficult feat to step up on the running board, but the women managed it in spite of the hobble skirts they wore.

It was in 1910 that the old board of trade formally changed the name of its organization to the Chamber of Commerce, falling in line with other cities throughout the country, but it was not until Monday evening, January 30, 1911, that the Chamber of Commerce elected its first paid secretary.

A man selected for the position was William F. Hoch, the popular secretary of the local Y. M. C. A. Mr. Hoch had made a study of municipal problems and he served the local chamber for several years before he resigned to accept a similar position in a larger city elsewhere.

A day or so ago I wrote a sketch recalling the presentation of the opera "Mikado" by home talent in February, 1911, and since then I have been reminded that the opera was presented once before in Kingston by the Kingston Operatic Club with Captain Everett Fowler as manager and Prof. W. H. Rieser as musical conductor. This was in 1896.

The leading roles were sung by William R. Anderson, O. P. Carpenter, Jr., William A. Richardson, W. L. Jackson, Millard F. Wygant, Mrs. Howard Wiest, Miss Margaret Lannon, Miss Gretchen Derenbacher and Miss Annie E. Murray.

In 1911 another cigar factory was added to the several already in active operation in Kingston when the Interstate Cigar Manufacturing Company of Port Ewen took over the old building of the former Kingston Carriage Company on Broadway, adjoining the H. W. Palen plant. The directors of the new concern were Frederick E. Kelsey, local expert cigar man, Charles A. Schermhorn and George H. Roesch of Brooklyn.

The new factory was in charge of Mr. Kelsey who at one time had served as superintendent of the old American cigar factory at Broadway and Pine Grove avenue. The new factory continued in operation, turning out fine cigars, for a number of years.

It is interesting also to note that Max Jacobson, veteran clothing merchant of lower Broadway, in 1910, was celebrating his 18th year in the clothing business. At that time his store was located on lower Hasbrouck avenue, and in later years he removed to his present location at Broadway and Mill street.

Literary Guide
By JOHN SELBY
"The Big Sea," by Langston Hughes
Langston Hughes is only 38 years old, and therefore young to write an autobiography. His "The Big Sea" would, if it were only an autobiography, be somewhat futile. It is more.

It is the story of a young negro at large in the world, written in the only way it could be written, and remain effective. That is to say, it is a personal account of experience in which the experience is related to an individual and not to a concept. There is a concept at large in the book, of course. It is the ever-present problem of the place in a world dominated by white or reasonably white people of a black, or reasonably black person. It concerns Langston Hughes as well as anyone else in the United States; he thinks, as most negroes think, that a negro should enjoy the privileges of this country equally with a white man. But he is not screaming about it in print.

Because of its restraint, and its wholly delightful appearance of having "just grown," his story is unique among like projects by negroes. It should be read and studied by young Richard Wright before it is too late. It should be read, too, by most whites, because it is true and honest and not bitter.

Weather Was No Good
Albany, N. Y., Aug. 27 (AP)—New York's conservation department says unfavorable weather has prevented fishermen from being "too successful" this season. Reports from some lakes, the department added, indicate good lake trout fishing the last several weeks. The season on this fish ends September 1 in Lake George and September 10 elsewhere.

Group to Observe Boiceville Reunion

Traditional Event Slated for Next Monday

The Boiceville "picnic" will be held as usual on Labor Day. It will be the 32nd of the gathering of this unique assembly in the Lambert pine grove.

In 1908 ancestral acres, homesteads, and homelies were being surrendered with the advent of the steam-shovels that were destined to impound the waters of the Esopus, but sentiment lingered on.

Those early gatherings were not in the nature of a celebration, but rather for the purpose of uniting the members of families that were being scattered far and wide.

Family traditions and local memories seemed about all that remained. Churches had been torn from their foundations, and not even the departed were to be left undisturbed.

As the years passed a second and third generation responded to the urge and opportunity to revisit old scenes and renew old acquaintances, they came from distant states and nearby cities, and automatically, the Boiceville "picnic" became the Boiceville Reunion Association.

It is an organization with no constitution, dues, or officers, except an honorary president and a working secretary-treasurer.

The meetings are decidedly informal, as picnics should be when good fellowship is the key-note of the day. There is no parade of oratory, although some of the impromptu remarks by attending guests and members give ample proof of their ability in this respect.

The first president of the association was Jacob V. Merrihew. He was succeeded by Delancey N. Mathews, who honored the office for many years. Subsequently, Joseph Hill, Jesse B. Boice, and Martin J. Every, served in the same capacity.

Each year it is to be noticed that many who attend bear names once familiar among the early industries along the Esopus, but the song of the cross-cut saw and the noon-time whistle of the tannery is no longer to be heard in the valley.

We look for, and hope for, a good attendance on the coming Labor Day, and do so because at no time in the past 32 years has citizenship seemed of greater value. Our early settlers prized it, and they were men of industry and integrity, with a keen appreciation of the beauty in which they founded their homesteads.

When Cooking Cabbage
Broccoli, onions and cabbage give off an unpleasant odor while cooking. To prevent this, cook the vegetables uncovered and lay two pieces of bread on the water.

Odd But Science

Carbon Black Comes to Light

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

(AP) Science Editor

New York—The electron microscope, new instrument which enlarges thousands of times beyond the best light microscope, reveals a fascinating fact about the tiny carbon black particles which, mixed with rubber, made automobile tires last twice as long as when pure rubber was used.

The electron microscope shows that the bits of carbon are so minute that if the surfaces of a cubic inch of them could be spread out flat, they would cover nearly 35,000 square feet.

This would cover a building lot 200 feet by 175 feet.

The diameters, the electron microscope shows, are on the average about an eight-hundred thousandth of an inch. This is two to three times smaller than they were estimated when studied through ordinary microscopes.

Their shapes also are clearly shown. They are almost round. The work is reported by the Columbia Carbon Co. The minuteness of the carbon particles is part of the secret of their ability to strengthen rubber, but not of it. Electrical charges on their surfaces are believed to be the main source of strength.

HIGHLAND

Store Stock Sold

Highland, Aug. 27—Friday saw the last business day for Lorin S. Callahan, who has conducted a grocery business in the same location on Main street for 30 years. He had announced that he was finishing his connection with that line August 31, and giving his attention to his work as Town Clerk, and unless a buyer for the well stocked store came forth Mr. Callahan had expected to have to get rid of his remaining stock during the winter. Several offers had been made but these were not satisfactory until Friday when Herman Sandy in company with a Mr. Mackey of Poughkeepsie handed over a check and became owner of the stock. The fixtures in the store are still the property of Mr. Callahan. The store was closed and reopens Tuesday when the new owners of the stock will put it out for sale.

Mr. Callahan will continue to hold his office in the store room until spring. He has been Town Clerk for 40 years and finds the work confining particularly since the Town has become owners of the Highland Water Works and bills and receipts become his work.

Mr. Sandy is an electrician connected with Walter R. Seaman and is rapidly taking an active business part in the village. Mr. Mackey was formerly from this side of the river, but resides in Poughkeepsie and has been connected with the William T. Reynolds company and is familiar with this line of goods.

Sunoco Emblems

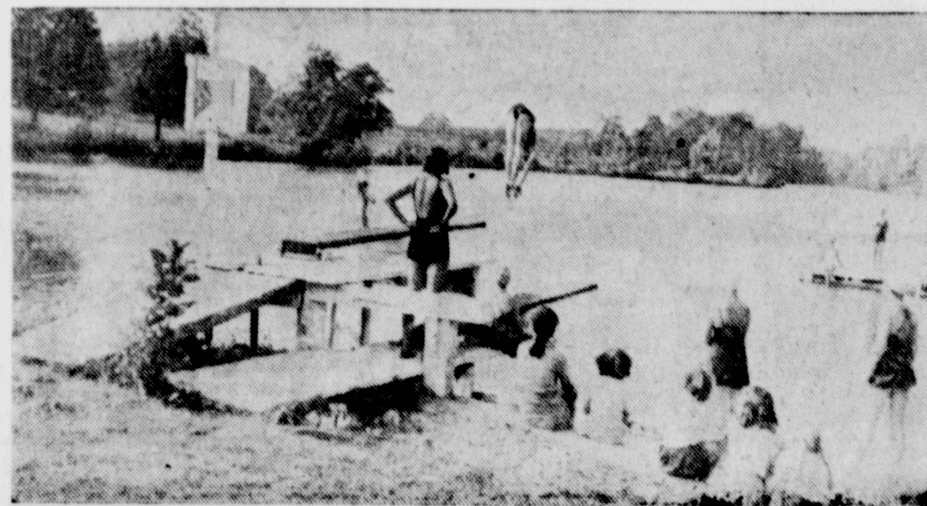

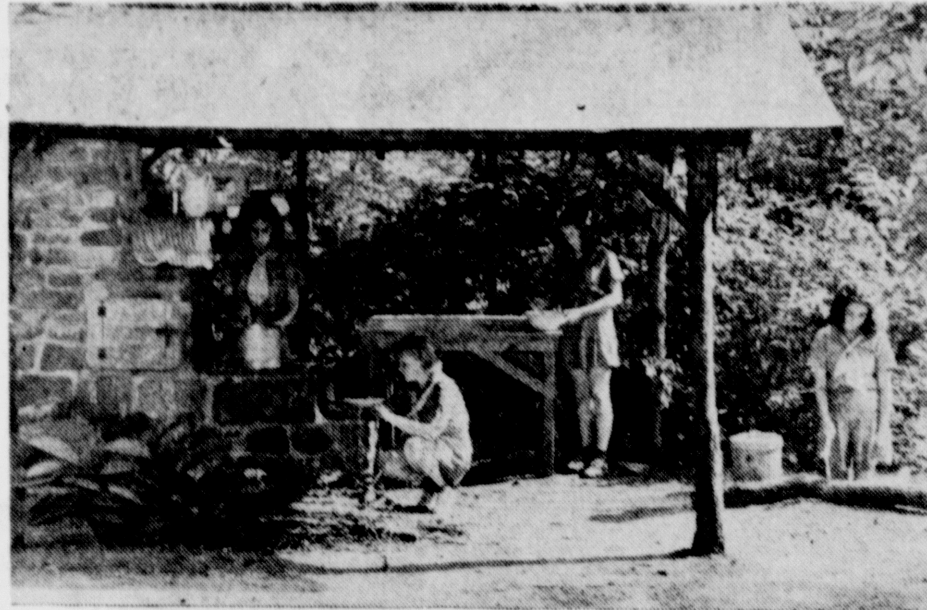

A new idea whereby a motorist can personalize his car with a license plate emblem bearing his own initials is expected to be received with much acclaim by the motoring public. These new embossed emblems of weatherproof metal are obtainable at Sunoco service stations. The center of the emblem is a solid yellow diamond and on either side, to give a piercing effect, is a red arrow.

In the center of the yellow diamond are then placed any three initials desired by the motorist. E. N. Gerken, local district manager of Sun Oil Company, sponsors of these new emblems, described some of the reactions motorists have had to the idea. He says, "One friend of mine has made the remark that these Sunoco emblems ought to be excellent theft insurance. The automobile thief would be much more likely to attempt to steal an unidentifiable car than one which not only carries the owner's tags but his initials as well."

A Summer Meal

Veal chops have an interesting new flavor when prepared like this: Pour about half a cup of French dressing into a shallow dish. Cook a garlic clove in the dressing for five minutes and then discard the clove. Dip six veal chops into the dressing and broil them or cook for 15 minutes in a small amount of fat placed in a frying pan. Turn frequently to allow even cooking. Serve with broiled tomatoes, corn on the cob, a green salad, a melon or some frozen or gelatin dessert and you have a distinctive meal that's not been difficult to prepare.

Columbia, S. C.—Officials of a church here want something done about it.

J. W. Buchan told police that everything from dishes to plumbing fixtures had been stolen from the church.

Worst of all, he said, someone had stored a quantity of liquor under the altar.

A Birdie?

Easton, Md.—A caddy climbed into a large cedar tree to retrieve a golf ball lodged in the top branches and found a bird's nest—with three other golf balls in it.

Tasty Water

Vallejo, Calif.—Mare Island navy yard workers got a taste of the sea and soft drink dealers made money. Someone had turned the wrong valve, sending San Pablo Bay salt water into the fresh water pipes.

Man of Principle

Salt Lake City—Fred Noys, Torrey, returned $1.25 to the Utah Public Welfare Department shortly after a 20 per cent cut in old age pensions was restored.

He said he was ineligible for the pension when the cut was made and therefore should not receive the increase. Welfare officials explained the boost was general, sent back the $1.25.

Quite a Family

Marshalltown, Ia.—Mr. and Mrs. William M. Wilson, now grandparents for the 50th time, boast 101 living descendants. A daughter born to their son and daughter-in-law was their 50th grandchild. Married 63 years ago, they have 51 great grandchildren.

Tears in Their Eyes
Middletown, N. Y., Aug. 27 (AP)—Orange county union field workers, who used concrete highways for dice tables after pay day, had tears in their eyes today. Informed by motorists, that crap games on the highways blocked traffic, state police broke up four games between Pine Island and Durlandville and arrested 10 men who were fined $5 each.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 27 (AP)—The stock market today was unable to work up enough animation to go anywhere in particular.

While weakness was rare, gains also were scarce. Numerous issues were unchanged from Monday and, near the fourth hour, minor advances and declines were fairly well balanced.

Dealings were a bit livelier than yesterday when the turnover was the second smallest for a full session in 24 years. Transfers today were at the rate of approximately 200,000 shares.

Again war developments, including persistent Nazi air bombing of England and retaliatory attacks on Germany by British flyers, received the principal blame for the speculative lethargy. Business news proved a prop for selected stocks but was ignored elsewhere.

Bonds were petty, as were commodities. Sugar futures pushed up on the Washington announcement of a cut in quotas.

Among resistant stocks were Sperry, Anaconda, Kennecott, North American, Pullman, Bullard, Texas Corp and Great Northern.

Backward were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Westinghouse, Pennsylvania, Loft and International Nickel.

Ahead occasionally in the curb were Humble Oil, American Cyanamid "B" and Todd Shindys. Lagging were Electric Bond & Share, International Petroleum and Niagara Hudson Power.

Excess Profits Tax Bill Agreed On by Committee

One of the questions that currently have been vexing business and adding to the uncertainty approached near to a solution last night when the House ways and means committee agreed unanimously on an excess profits tax bill. Provisions would apply to all 1940 corporation earnings. The bill provides for two optional schedules, with minimum levy put at 20 per cent and maximum at 50 per cent. Five year plant amortization was approved, applying to all facilities acquired or constructed after July 10 this year, for defense plant expansion. The profit limitation on aircraft and warship construction, contained in the Vinson-Trammell act, was suspended for so long as the excess profits tax is in effect. The majority of the large capital goods companies which have had small earnings in recent years will benefit most from the changes made in the bill as it now stands. Companies which have had liberal earnings in the four base years, 1936-39, will be hit harder than in the bill as it originally stood.

A suggestion has been made to officers of the New York Stock Exchange that trading time be lengthened by one hour a day, closing at 4 o'clock instead of 3 as at present. The subject has been up a number of times in previous years but always has been turned down. Sentiment favoring the change is said to be stronger than at any previous time. The change would reduce the disadvantage under which western traders operate. Thus, in the winter, when the New York Market closes it is only noon in California, where six to 15 per cent of the trading here originates.

Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp. has reaffirmed prevailing steel prices for the fourth quarter. The remainder of the industry is expected to follow suit. Steel operations this week for the country as a whole are scheduled at 91.3 per cent of capacity, an increase of 1.6 points over last week.

Hercules Powder Co. has received a $16,075,000 war department contract for powder.

Volume of business on the Stock Exchange Monday dropped back to 161,740 shares, second lowest for a full day in 24 years. Price changes were small and meaningless and the Dow-Jones averages closed mixed. The industrial were up 23 points for the day to 125.71; rails were off .01, to 26.85, and utilities again remained unchanged at 22.00.

Nash-Kelvinator, with turnover of 5,000 shares, led the list of 15 most active stocks, closing unchanged at 51½.

Wheat was stronger, in the commodity market and closed up ½ to 1½ cents a bushel. The market was buying by mills and consequent short covering. Cotton futures closed unchanged to two points higher. Raw hide futures gained 19 to 31 points in active trading. Crude rubber advanced. Domestic sugar closed one to three points lower.

Richfield Oil Corp. reports net for the six months ended June 30 of $2,112,479, equal to 52 cents a share, as against net of $1,196,129, or 29 cents a share in the like 1939 period.

The automobile industry "will do well to uncover in the year ahead a volume of business as good as that in the model year just concluded," Ward's Automotive Reports says in its current issue.

Compromise Proposal

Previously, the Senate adopted a compromise proposal by Lodge which fixed 900,000 as the maximum number of conscripts to be in training at any one peacetime period.

Lodge's proposal restricting service to the western hemisphere, conformed to a similar provision in legislation authorizing the President to order the National Guard and army reserves into active service.

Taking the Guard legislation as a model, the Senate proceeded to approve other amendments moulding the conscription bill along similar lines.

It adopted an amendment by Senator Gurney (R-S. D.) striking out provision authorizing the National Guard relations board to institute court proceedings to force the re-employment of a conscript who had completed the year's training specified in the bill.

It provided for civil court trials of draft "dodgers" instead of hearings before military tribunals and voted to prohibit any person connected with the military establishment from becoming a member of a local draft board.

Barkley's Amendment

Without audible objections, the chamber wrote into the measure an amendment by Barkley to authorize the appropriation of funds to carry out the terms of the bill, thus clearing the way for quick congressional action to provide the money needed.

With these and other amendments out of the way, Barkley pronounced the bill "nearly ready" for the final vote, except for action on the three substitutes.

These all proposed delays, in one form or another, of the actual induction into military service of the young men from 21 through 30 years old who would be required to register under terms of the Burke-Wadsworth measure.

Senator Maloney (D-Conn.) proposed that one-year voluntary enlistments be tried until January 1, if these failed to fill the army's quota, conscription would go into effect.

Senator Walsh (D-Mass.) advocated in his substitute that conscription be postponed until Congress should declare a national emergency.

A third substitute sponsored by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) would set up a system of voluntary enlistments linked with the voluntary training of college students.

demagogism, license, agitation, discontent, anarchy."

Johnson's comment was: "One might think that was Mr. Hitler or Mr. Mussolini talking, instead of the army of the United States. An army officer's conception of the proper government evidently is that it should be a one-man government."

Criticizes Congress
Before Senator Johnson started his speech, Senator Smathers (D. N. J.) criticized Congress for "two months of speech-making" on the conscription and national guard bills.

Senator Connally (D. Tex.) said he would attempt to restrict exemptions from military service now granted members of Congress and other administrative officials of federal, state and local governments.

"I don't want a lot of these little two-bit officials claiming exemptions just because they are on a government payroll," the Texas senator said.

Scheduling the second night session of the week, Senator Barkley (D-Ky.) predicted passage of the measure—in a form calling for immediate conscription of manpower—before the day's end.

The majority leader told reporters he was confident that the Senate would reject by "comfortable" margins all three proposals to postpone conscription and send the Burke-Wadsworth measure to the House in about the form it stood when debate began today.

Working until 10 p. m. (E. S. T.) last night, while packed galleries looked on, the chamber wrote into the measure a dozen amendments, some only technical and clarifying, but others that imposed restrictions on the use of men conscripted for service.

Chief of these was an amendment by Senator Lodge (R-Mass.) to limit service of peacetime conscripts to the western hemisphere. The chamber voted down, 39 to 32, a proposal by Senator Clark (D-Mo.) to narrow the service area to the continental United States and American possessions.

Reds Split With Phillies But Retain Lead; Hubbell Rescues Giants From Cubs

Walters Wins 18th Game in Opener; Bees Take Cardinals; Indians Beat Senators

(By The Associated Press)

It's a tough task to shake baseball's league leaders out of the treptops in August, even when they look ripe for a fall.

The Cleveland Indians, who once this season gained the American League lead by losing four straight, seemed in danger of dropping off their precarious perch in the throes of another four-game losing streak last week-end.

But they stopped it yesterday by edging out the Washington Senators 4-3 while both the second-place Detroit Tigers and third-place New York Yankees were kept idle by rain. As the result of this opportune triumph the Indians increased their advantage over the Yankees to three games and over the Cincinnati Reds to a double bill with the Philadelphia Phillies without harming their 7½ game advantage in the National League because the Brooklyn Dodgers also were rained out.

All of which goes to show that it isn't the short winning or losing streaks, it's the long haul that counts.

Cleveland's conquest of the Senators was made possible by Bob Feller, although he didn't get credit for the game. The fireballer went to the rescue of Mel Harder in the seventh and shutout the Senators in the last three stanzas.

Bucky Walters, another "sure shot," pitched and batted the Reds to a 3-2 victory in their first game, which incidentally gave the senior circuit champions a four-game winning string temporarily. He held the tailenders to five hits and batted in two of Cincinnati's own runs, one with a homer. It was Bucky's eighteenth win.

Hub Wins 11th

Sylvester Johnson, the 39-year-old combination coach and pitcher for the Phils, then retaliated in the nightcap with a three-hit performance that left the Reds gasping. They had made only eight blows off the Phillies' small-framed pitching duo in the first game.

Carl Hubbell, who at 37 is working harder than a lot of baseball youngsters, made his third appearance in four days and saved the New York Giants a 10-5 verdict over the Chicago Cubs.

The fourth-place New Yorkers manufactured 16 hits and clustered enough of them in the early innings to give Harry Gumbert an 8-1 lead in the first four frames.

But he faltered and "Big Red" pulled the Terrymen out, pitching five shutout innings and getting credit for his 11th victory.

Another fine relief showing was that of Boston's Jim Bagby in helping the Red Sox to a 7-6 decision over the St. Louis Browns.

He allowed only two hits in the last 6-2-3 innings. Manager Joe Cronin produced three runs with a double and a single.

The Boston Red Sox threw more water on the St. Louis Cardinals' conflagration by winning a night game 3-1 with Rookie Nic Strincevich hurling five-hit ball. That's all the Bees obtained, too, but the Cards contributed three errors.

Leader Posts 69 Score With Three Others at 70

Hershey, Pa., Aug. 27 (AP)—The professionals demonstrated again today—with the chips really down—that there's something whacky about par being the mythically perfect score in golf.

The field of 120 of the best shot makers in the business moved into the second 18 hole qualifying round for the PGA championship, spraying a rain soaked course with birds and eagles.

Fourteen of the top notchers bettered par of 73 on the 7,017 Hershey layout yesterday, headed by handsome Dick Metz, who fashioned a 69.

At 70 were Ralph Guldahl, Jug McSpaden and Johnny Gibson. At 71 were Jimmy Demaret, Jimmy Hines, Ky Laffoon and Paul Runyan.

Stretched out behind were all the big names of the game.

Challender Runs Today

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 27 (AP)—William L. Brann's Challenger makes his only appearance of the Saratoga meeting today against a pair of rivals who wouldn't give him much more than a brisk workout. Only William Woodward chose to send his horses against the mighty son of Challenger in today's 13th running of the $3,000 added Whitney Stakes. He named Isolator, surprise winner of the Merchants and Citizens Handicap last Saturday, and the three-year-old Dusky Fox.

Today's Guest Star

Nixon Denton, Cincinnati Times-Star, "Jock Sutherland" can't seem to remember that he no longer is coaching a college football team. Asked to describe the prospects of the Brooklyn Dodgers, he asserted they were far from bright.

Jimmy Ferrier Is Disqualified From Amateur Tourney

Turnesa and Goodman Are Among Remaining Men to Have Good Chance of Getting Title

New York, Aug. 27 (AP)—The United States Golf Association took all the international flavor and a lot of interest out of the 1940 national amateur championship by ruling out Jimmy Ferrier yesterday, but there still are enough good golfers left to make a whale of a tournament out of today's sectional qualifying spree.

Counting out Ferrier and the ten former champions who don't have to play in the sectional rounds, 747 players remain on the list. After today's 36-hole tests in 28 locations, only 140 of them will remain to go into the championship tourney at Mamaroneck's winged foot club September 9-14.

The last-minute disqualification of Ferrier, amateur and open champion of Australia, was as bewildering to the fans who figured he had a very good chance of winning as it was to Jim himself. It was based upon the publication in Australia of a profusely illustrated book called "Jim Ferrier's Golf Shots."

The U. S. G. A. contention is that it is a book of instruction and as Ferrier receives royalties from it, that makes him ineligible under the U. S. G. A. amateur rule. Ferrier argues the book merely analyzes his own unorthodox style without trying to tell other golfers how to play.

With Ferrier out, the leading candidates for the title seem to be the 10 exempt players—Marvin (Bud) Ward, the 1939 winner; Willie Turnesa, Johnny Goodman, Johnny Fischer, George T. Dunlap, Jess Sweetser, Francis Oulmet, Max Marston, Jesse Guilford and Chick Evans.

Visitors Score Five Runs in 9th Inning To Nip Hustamen

Famous Negro National League Club Is Booked for Wednesday Night at Stadium

The "Fall of Rome" couldn't compare with the fall of Carle Husta's Kingston Recreations at municipal stadium last night as the House of David, on the brunt of a ninth-inning five-run spurge, took the decision by 7 to 5. Kingston had the Davids on the run until the final and fatal inning.

For eight complete innings the Recreations played the best ball of the season. The fielding was superb, players coming up with impossible stops to make fine throws for the out at first. The outfielders covered a lot of territory.

But all good things must come to an end, they say. And the Recs' end came very fast once the idea was started. Until the ninth Charlie Neff was protecting a fairly comfortable 4 to 2 lead. Then the infield snapped. Errors again cost Kingston the decision.

Opposing Neff last night was Watson and Talgo, both lefthanders, the latter coming through to earn the decision. Watson hurled the first five innings and was hit rather freely by the inspired Recreations. Talgo then sauntered in and proceeded to horse-collar the Recs.

Giants on Wednesday
Kingston will try to get back on the winning bandwagon again Wednesday night at municipal stadium when the famous Baltimore Elite Giants come to town. The second place Giants of the Negro National League is indeed the finest colored road attraction to appear here this season. At present the Elites are trailing the Homestead Grays in that loop by one full game.

The "Boarded Beauties" opened the scoring activities on Watson's deep triple over Tommy Maines' lead followed by Lou Vann's pumped single to center. In Kingston's third, Van Derzee chopped the first of his four hits into right, went to second on a pass ball and romped home on Maines' single into center.

Kingston hit pay-dirt three times in the fourth off Watson. Schatzel opened with a double and scored on Zadany's single to left. Celuch fanned but Charlie Neff stroked a double to right and when McGloin failed to come up with the ball cleanly, Neff rode all the way in. But that was the end of Kingston's scoring until the ninth when one more tally came in.

Fatal Ninth Inning
That final session was really a nightmare. An error by McLean started it on Woods' grounder. Talgo singled to left but was forced a minute later on Comiskey's bouncer to short which should have been turned into a double-killing. Two bad breaks for Neff. Watson bopped his second extra-base hit into right for a double, Woods counting. Vann walked filling the sacks. Battles slammed another hit into center scoring two more. Van Derzee messed up Shadowen's easy grounder, Watson registering. The second out was registered as Helixion skied to Thomas. Celuch then erred on Norm Pearce's bouncer but the inning finally ended as Celuch took Woods' grounder.

Kingston attempted to get back into the game in the last half on a double by Charlie Neff and Hoffman's walk who batted for McLean. Van Derzee sliced a single into center scoring Neff but Bill Thomas rapped into a twin-killing. Maines then scotched out to Battles for the final out of the game.

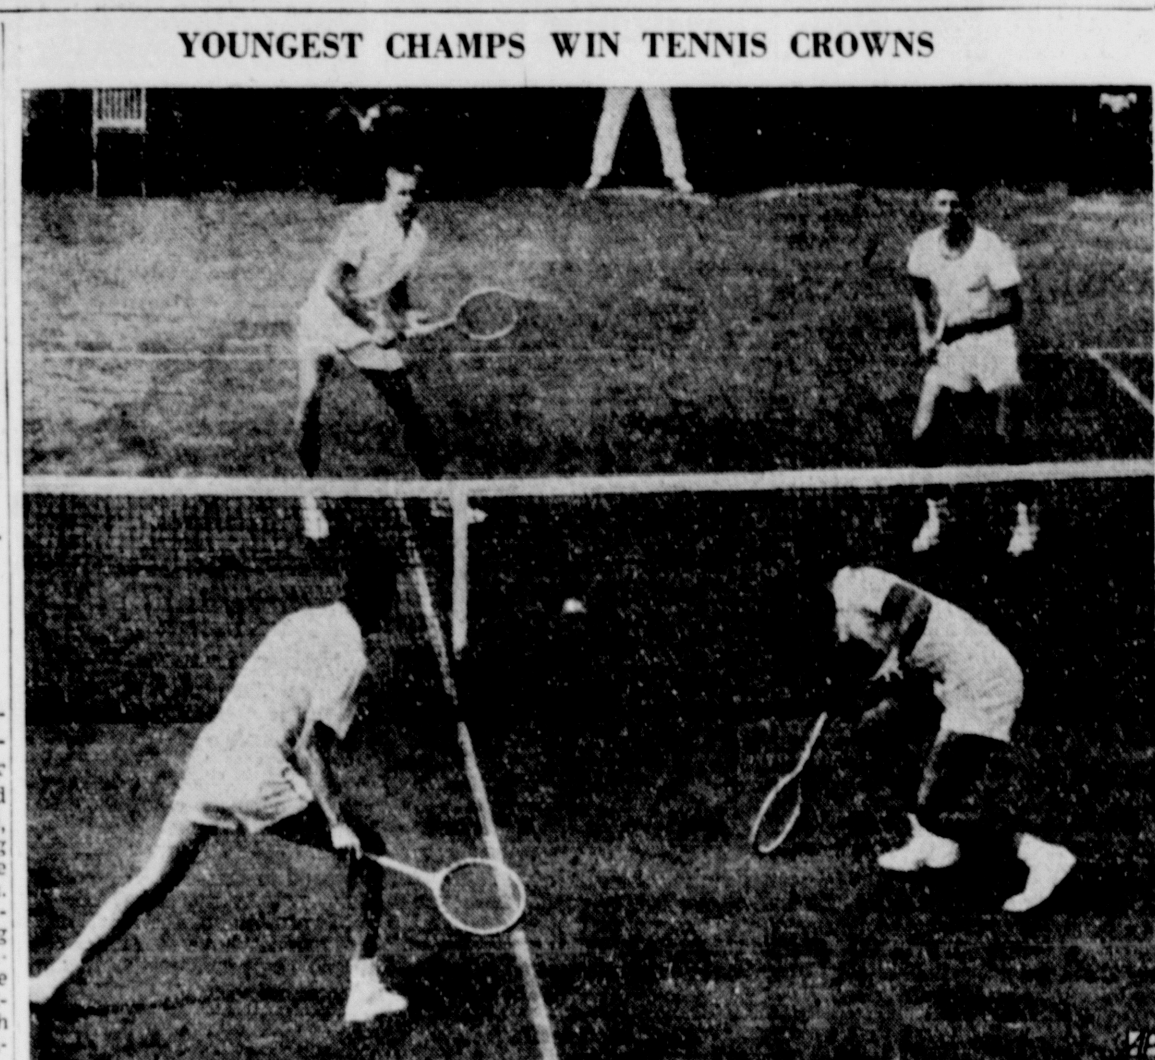

Press Box Jottings
...Sensational plays all night. "Red" McLean made a spectacular play on Norm Pearce in the second to rib him of a hit. Van Derzee took another "hit" away from Norm in the fourth....Bill Thomas came in from left field in the first inning to stretch for Battles' hit and made a catch....Tommy Maines took one potential run from the Davids in the sixth as he threw out Vann trying to get into third on Battles' single to center....Charlie Neff, the big New Paltz flinger, had the Davids going last night. He deserved the victory, too....Webbie Bush will get the call in Wednesday's tussle against the Baltimore Elite Giants. The Elites have a powerful club and will definitely bring the regular club to Kingston for this unusual attraction at the stadium. Game time is 8:30 o'clock and all ladies will be admitted at half price. It promises to be the best game of the season.

Bowlers Meet Tonight
The first meeting of the Central Major Bowling League will be held this evening at the Central Recreation alleys at 8 o'clock. All of last year's captains and officials are invited to attend. Also all new teams and players are cordially invited.

143 Golfers Are Set
Springfield, N. J., Aug. 27 (AP)—Thirty-six-hole tours of the Baltusrol Golf Club courses were on tap today for 143 metropolitan district contenders seeking places in the National Amateur golf championship. New Jersey, Long Island and Westchester county clubs were represented in the field which was to be narrowed to 25 qualifiers in a single day's play.

Morning and afternoon rounds of 18 holes each were slated with competitors playing in three-ommes. Long Island had 52 entries, including 13 public links players, and Westchester county 45. New Jersey had 46 representatives.

Rabies Is Not Seasonal Says Noted Expert

New York, Aug. 21—The so-called "dog days" of midsummer have come and gone and in some localities have left in their wake the attending scare of rabies or hydrophobia, a disease which since ancient times has been popularly thought to be most prevalent at this season.

Dr. D. B. Armstrong, third vice-president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, points out that, on the contrary, rabies is not a seasonal disease of dogs and other animals, or of humans, but can attack them at any time of the year. Among dogs, for instance, the disease is most prevalent in the spring.

However, he says, information about rabies will take away much of the dread of the disease, and prompt treatment of all persons bitten by a dog suffering from rabies will save the great majority of them from suffering ending in death.

"A person who is bitten by a dog," Dr. Armstrong says, "should have the wound treated and cauterized by a physician, who will use a strong solution of nitric acid. If the dog is known to be rabid or 'mad,' or is proved to be so by laboratory examination of its brain, the Pasteur treatment for rabies should be started at once. When doubt of the dog's condition exists, segregation and observation of the animal for from 10 to 14 days will reveal whether he is rabid or not. If the dog cannot be found, and is suspected of having rabies, the Pasteur treatment should be given immediately.

Plans Completed By Legion Group To Attend Event

Plans for attending the state Legion convention to be held in Schenectady on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, were completed last evening by the drum corps of Kingston Post. The Sons of the Legion corps will also attend the convention and take part in the big parade which will be held on Friday afternoon.

Two buses will leave the Legion building on Friday morning at 8 o'clock to transport the corps to the convention. Anyone desiring to make the trip with the corps should get in touch with the custodian at the building as it is expected there will be room for several on the buses.

Delegates from the local post are Andrew J. Murphy, Jr., and Gus Paulson with Harry L. Kitchner and Joseph Sills as alternates. Headquarters of the local delegation will be in the Van Curler Hotel.

On Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, the 40 and 8 will stage its annual parade at which time many of the members provoke much laughter along the line of march with their variety of costumes.

The local corps will hold a final rehearsal before the convention Wednesday evening in the Memorial building at which every member is asked to be present.

Raphaelson Comedy to Run Through to Labor Day

For his last production of the season at the Woodstock Playhouse Robert Elwyn, director, is fortunate in obtaining, by special permission, the rights to Samson Raphaelson's comedy, "Skylark," the play in which Gertrude Lawrence made such a hit last season on Broadway.

"Skylark" is a comedy which portrays the predicament of a successful young advertising man who has reached such heights in his business career that he and his wife are no longer able to live their own lives as they wish. They are so involved in advertising campaigns and business associates that they cannot make their own choice in regard to either friends or soap.

Suddenly the wife rebels and plays her cards in such a way that her husband finds himself without a job and with the complex problem of regaining his wife and finding himself a new job while he leads his wife to believe that he doesn't want one. How he finally achieved this comprises the main plot which is told in Raphaelson's sparkling, witty dialogue.

The husband is played by Stephen Sandes and the wife by Elizabeth Malloch. Other members of the Woodstock Playhouse Company included in the cast are: Herschel Bentley, Donna Earl, Arthur E. Gould-Porter, Constance Clark, Ivan Triessault, Peter Adams and Bruce Wanne.

The play, which opens Thursday, will run one night longer than the usual run so as to include Labor Day evening.

Youth Takes 'Short Cut'

Santa Maria, Calif., Aug. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Cornelius Denovan looked into the back seat after a long silence. Her car door was open and her 8-year-old son, Richard, missing. She drove back along her route and organized a search. After several hours she drove to her home and found Richard there. He had "taken a short cut," hiking five miles over steep mountain trails with a broken arm and fractured skull. He is recovering in a hospital here.

Employment Service in July Filled 26,860 Jobs

Continuing at close to record levels despite the normal slump in industry during the summer months, the New York State Employment Service in July filled 25,077 jobs in private industry and 1,783 in public fields for a total of 26,860 placements, according to a report issued today by Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller.

While public jobs fell 42 per cent below those of July, 1939, placements in private industry rose 58 per cent above those of a year ago. For the first time since January well over half of all placements in private industry were in permanent employment or expected to last for periods beyond a month.

Total placements in Kingston area during July were 51. Of these, all were in jobs in private industry.

Although placements in private industry reported during the month of June established a record high mark for the past 20 years, July placements fell off only five per cent.

"While this decline from June figures is true throughout the state as a whole," Miss Miller pointed out, "it is worthy of note that in certain areas there were marked increases last month over June. This is especially true in the Rochester men's clothing industry area, the copper products region about Rome, the Massena aluminum products section, the summer resort areas about Monticello, and in the canning industry country surrounding Newark."

In Catholic Schools

An anticipated enrollment of 117,700 pupils in the elementary and secondary Catholic schools of the Archdiocese of New York for the school year 1940-1941 has been revealed in a preliminary survey prepared for Archbishop Francis J. Spellman by the Rev. William R. Kelly, LL.D., diocesan superintendent of school. An anticipated shrinkage of several hundred under the 1939 enrollment for elementary schools is offset by a marked increase in commercial and secretarial school registration and a continuation of the upward trend in secondary academic courses, the survey shows.

Wheeler and Paish At Odds on Talk turned over to the United States by the British government and its character was such, Sir George asserted, that it influenced the decision of the United States to enter the conflict.

Senator Wheeler, presenting his version of the incident to the Senate, said he had told Sir George that his "I am responsible" assertion was a "broad statement." The economist, he said, thereupon "qualified it to the extent of saying, 'Well, everything short of war.'"

Senator Glass (D., Va.) said that "if any Englishman were to come to my office with any such proposal I would drive him out, and I think any senator of self-respect should have driven him out."

He added that "the senator should have taken steps to acquaint the officials of this country with this man's behavior and if there is not a law to put him out, he should be put out anyway."

Sir George said last night that he had come here to deliver a series of lectures after the November election on "certain facts regarding Germany's intentions toward the United States and South America" but that "in view of their importance" he had decided to present them in advance to certain senators. He declined to name the senators on whom he had called.

He added that "in England a private conversation is private" and that he had not expected Wheeler or others to make public what he said.

A British embassy spokesman said Sir George was in this country in a private capacity and had no connection with the British government. He was a White House caller recently.

In London, a foreign office spokesman described Sir George Paish today as an "elderly gentleman with a distinguished past" who is in the United States on private business and "has no authority to speak for His Majesty's government."
